Six American kidnappers, one ship's crew members who stole the plane from Tampa, Fla., said the five Americans were taken to Cuba. The Cubans

All were deported aboard a Pan American flight at Miami International Airport at 3:10 p.m. Friday.

Mead, a pilot instructor for American Aviation Corp., said he flew to Cuba eight days ago because a gun was pointed at his skull.

Late Friday, the FBI charged these two with kidnapping:

David Thomas Healy, 22, of Coral Gables, a self-styled "song writer" and "free lance reporter."

Leonard Malcolm Oeth, 28, formerly of Orlando, a one-time doughnut salesman who said he lived in Miami at "no fixed address." He returned with a shoebox full of Cuban cigars and pro-Castro magazines in English, French and Spanish.
